

BETTER TOGETHER

SYMANTEC AND CARBON BLACK

NEW CAPABILITIES AND SHARED EXPERTISE

Two legendary security brands—Symantec and Carbon Black—have combined to form the new Broadcom Enterprise Security Group. The Symantec portfolio, with some of the most powerful security technology and research in the world, concentrates on data and threat protection. Carbon Black's complementary portfolio specializes in both endpoint detection and response (EDR) and application control—two product categories Carbon Black pioneered.

WHAT CUSTOMERS GAIN

More control.

Carbon Black now offers greater visibility and control to customers and partners, powered by network and data telemetry from the Symantec portfolio.

Longer life for existing solutions.

Significant investments in R&D improve and extend the life of products on-prem and across hybrid cloud environments.

Continued service support.

Carbon Black customers will continue to receive world-class service, but now with more dedicated resources and focused support than ever before.

Ongoing innovation.

Broadcom's financial stability empowers Symantec and Carbon Black portfolios to innovate at a massive scale.

Complementary technologies.

More choices help make defenders better equipped to protect their infrastructures.

MORE DEPTH: STRONGER SECURITY FOR YOUR ENTERPRISE

The Broadcom Enterprise Security Group offers one of the broadest security portfolios available today—and is backed by one of the largest civilian threat intelligence networks on the planet. Symantec and Carbon Black are united in their mission to help secure the world's most targeted enterprises—a focus that benefits every customer, large or small.

MORE SOLUTIONS: FOR YOUR MOST PRESSING USE CASES

We'll help you meet compliance and other regulatory mandates, secure sensitive data in the era of remote work, and extend zero trust protections to every asset and application. All these capabilities can help you solve your most critical use cases:

MORE BREADTH: TRUSTED BY THE WORLD'S MOST TARGETED ORGANIZATIONS

Symantec serves 13 of the world's 15 largest banks and is known for its mastery of cybersecurity defenses for financial services. Carbon Black's broad presence in government, healthcare and energy extends Broadcom's domain expertise in those markets.

Shrink your attack surface.

The Symantec Global Intelligence Network helps you identify threats across multiple control points to stop sophisticated attacks.

Shut down novel and evolving threats.

Defend against novel assaults and zero days with Symantec protection engines, which employs artificial intelligence (AI), machine learning (ML) and behavioral analytics to detect suspicious behavior and alert security teams.

Stop malware and ransomware.

Endpoint security solutions from Symantec and Carbon Black help detect infiltration attempts before they lead to costly exploits.

Unify visibility across endpoints, networks, workloads and users.

Carbon Black's advanced EDR offerings give you widespread visibility into every corner of your environment.

Cut dwell time.

Faster is better when detecting and responding to a breach or attacker. Find and stop them with Carbon Black EDR solutions.

Protect users everywhere they go.

Symantec secure web gateway (SWG) acts as a proxy between users and the internet to identify malicious websites and payloads and to control access to sensitive content.

Minimize alert fatigue.

Rely on Carbon Black's EDR solutions to analyze contextual data and quality detections so you focus only on the alerts worthy of your time.

Prevent impacts to your high-value data.

Symantec's leading DLP solutions help you discover sensitive data, monitor its use and protect it wherever it goes.

Prevent lateral movement.

Carbon Black EDR helps you detect and respond to evasive threats to keep attackers from moving (and hiding) throughout your environment.

Implement a default/deny security posture.

Application control solutions from both Symantec and Carbon Black further shrink your attack surface by protecting critical assets that traditional protections may overlook.

Hunt threats proactively.

Carbon Black's threat hunting solutions give you the tools and intel you need to sniff out and contain attackers.
